

Sava

EDGE

Portal > News > General > A floating neighbourhood in Amsterdam

A floating neighbourhood in Amsterdam

2019-10-29 - Hayley - in General

Could these Dutch developments be an example of the way developers could approach tricky urban sites in the future? They demonstrate an economical way to deal with contaminated land from old industrial use and an approach to housing where land is at a premium. By repurposing and using clever solutions we can create more sustainable living and working spaces that could be fit for the future.

Read the full story here.

